One citizen came forward this evening. Andrew Kuhn representing Mesa Community College Associated Students came forward to invite members of the Board and all other present to the Candidate Forums they were hosting on October 1, 2, and 3 at 6:00 p.m. at the Jack Shell Auditorium, East Valley Institute of Technology located at 1601 West Main Street, Mesa. BOARD MEMBER REPORTS
Mr. Lumm commented he had gone to the National Community College Hispanic Council Conference held the past week in Long Beach where he participated on a panel. The purpose of the organization is to help younger administrators advance. He attended a number of workshops that he found extremely interesting and one in particular was San Antonio College’s Honors Academy where students take core classes in English, History, Government, Math and Science which are requirements for every bachelor degree in Texas. The program promotes study habits and critical thinking skills. Another workshop was facilitated by Jose Aguinaraga from Glendale Community College who presented his dissertation study on culture and leadership style. Two other speakers were Dr. Jose Cisneros and Corina Conchola who spoke on the impact of immigration policies.

Mr. Saar reported he had attended a couple of ribbon-cutting ceremonies, one for the Scottsdale Community College Film School HUB and the other for the GCC Tennis Courts. He also, along with Mr. Lumm, attended ASBA’s Law Conference.

Mr. Burke reported he attended the Equity Conference at Rio Salado College and also the Mesa Counts on College Summit which is intended to help students be successful in college. Mr. Burke also explained that he and Mr. Lumm had recently participated on the search committee to hire the replacement for Gloria Smith, Governing Board Assistant, who would be retiring next year. He introduced Christina Emmons who was in the audience and would be stepping into this position.

CHANCELLOR’S REPORT
Chancellor Glasper updated the Board on three national committees he has been named to. For the last 6-8 months he has participated on the Commission on Attainment which is an opportunity to look at the President’s Charge to increase certificates and degrees by the year 2020. MCCC has taken on the challenge of increasing by 50% The Big 6 Higher Education Organizations on Dupont Circle in Washington D.C. are exploring whether it is possible to attain this goal. Louis Soares, author of the theory on disruptive innovation, was a recent speaker at one of the meetings and spoke about the differences between traditional students and post-traditional students. Post-traditional students many times are unsuccessful because of other activities. Also, unless we have programs that are affordable we are going to have a tough time achieving the goal. They are looking at other ways to become a model of change such as partnerships with K-12 and four-year universities. Faculty, also, can help traverse this goal. Faculty voices have not been heard in the report. It is a good opportunity to be at the table. Dr. Glasper also commented on the out-of-state online regulations that are being developed which would require the payment of extra fees for out of state students. Rio Salado College is our primary on-line provider and President Bustamante has helped bring a solution to the table which will be a recommended strategy. Dr. Bustamante commented that it has been suggested that rather than one national process for this, that the country implement regional centers to streamline the process. There would be less fees and more access. Each college would have to apply.

They would also work with the state legislature during that period.
